MOTHER'S DEEP SORROW OVER HER SON

Funeral services for Brigham Ballantyne, who was accidentally shot by Charles Woods at Snowville, Saturday, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Sixth ward meeting house, with Bishop O. M. Sanderson officiating. The meeting house was filled with friends and relatives who attended the services. The front of the auditorium was a mass of flowers and several of the larger offerings were placed upon the platform.

Preceding the services, the relatives and intimate friends gathered at the residence directly across the street from the chapel. When it came time to remove the casket to the church, prayer was offered by Elder Anderson. The mother, who had borne her sorrow bravely until this last moment, broke down and for a few minutes could not be prevailed upon to permit the removal from the home.

The nephews of the deceased, Edward Anderson, Jr., Leroy Ballantyne, Earl Ballantyne, Maxie Sclafeld, Lionel Farr and Franklin Ballantyne, were the pallbearers. They carried the casket, heaped with flowers, from the home to the church with the business friends and employees walking before and the relatives following.

The speakers at the services were Samuel H. Dyke, church, George W. Larkin and Bishop Sanderson.

Between the eulogies, the following musical program was given:

"Oh, My Father," Myrtle Hixley, Elsie Shorten, Stella Wright, Walter Stephens and George Douglas; "My Father Knows," George Douglas, Myrtle Hixley, and quartette, "Face to Face," Miss Shorten; "They Will Be Done," George Douglas, solo, selected, Myrtle Hixley.

Interment took place in Ogden city cemetery.

STATE SCHOOL IS MAKING A TEST

"Salt Lake and Utah counties have really been benefited by the visit of the alfalfa weevil," said Dr. E. G. Titus, entomologist of the Utah Agricultural college yesterday. In enlarging upon his revolutionary statement, the state chief fighter of insects said that the advent of the bug had caused many old and unattended lucerne fields to be plowed up and more care taken of fields in general. A field should be left to alfalfa no longer than four or five years, C. G. Wood of Trenton, Utah, is plowing his lucerne stubble after three years and getting, he thinks, the best results. Dr. Titus emphasizes strongly the need of plowing up the field no longer than five years after seeding, and proper cultivation of the field every season; for the pest breeds right on the stem of the plant. Again, old piles of hay left in the field, also weedy ditch banks, are favorite hibernating places for the insect.

The real remedy for the weevil, according to Dr. Titus, is better farming. He regards the importing of weevil-eating bugs, which is now arousing much interest in Utah, as only an artificial method of eliminating the pest, even if it works at all. The one remedy that will be permanently effective, he says, is proper cultivation of alfalfa fields. The spring-tooth and brush drag must be liberally applied on the stubble immediately after the first crop is removed. The same thing must be done after the second cutting.

"Davis, Weber and Cache counties had better wake up," said this practical scientist. "Proper attention should be given to hay fields before the onslaught of the insect is made, rather than wait till the damage is done." Already the bug is upon those counties and is causing serious injury as far north as Brigham City. The remedy Dr. Titus recommends is known to succeed. The farmers that apply it have no weevil. Demonstration work at various points in the state is being done to prove this, one of these being at the industrial school farm in Ogden.

CHEYENNE MAN BOOSTS FOR OVERLAND

H. M. Bunce, representing the Commercial club of Cheyenne, Wyo., has returned home after having spent a few days in Ogden in the interests of the "Overland Automobile Trail." He stated that the indications are more than promising that the Overland route will be accepted by the motorists of the country and that it will not be a great while until active construction of a greater boulevard is under way.

"God Almighty made this way," he said today, "and he intended that it should be used. It is a natural thoroughfare across this big country of ours and we are going to use it. Wyoming is a big state when it comes to roads, but we will meet the requirements and make 500 miles of the best mountain road in the world as a part of the automobile boulevard across the continent. The Ogden people are with us and by united effort there is no chance for failure."

ARRESTED FOR DISTURBING A SPEAKER

J. E. Harcombe, a civil engineer, was arrested by Jailer Hagbert Anderson when Harcombe refused to desist in his interruptions of a Josephite speaker in the city hall park last night. Harcombe walked with the jailer until the two reached the station when Harcombe refused to go farther and broke away from Anderson. He was joined by his brother, Wm. Harcombe, the attorney, on Twenty-fifth street and the two went down Twenty-fifth street where they were found by Anderson and Patrolman Marlin. Harcombe was taken to the police station in the patrol wagon and was released when the brother put up $25 for his appearance.

Jailer Anderson filed two charges, one of disturbing the peace and another of resisting an officer. The case will be heard by Judge W. H. Reeder Thursday morning.

CONFLICT OF AUTHORITY A REGIMENT OF TWO

Upon reading in a morning Salt Lake paper that J. C. Lambert, deputy state food and inspector who was in Ogden yesterday, had sworn out a complaint against Theodore Geffas of this city for violating the milk ordinances, Sanitary Inspector George Shorten is wondering whether the Salt Lake deputy has usurped his authority. The inspector declares that he is the only man to make such complaints.

The deputy inspector, while here, secured a sample of milk from the restaurant conducted by Geffas and his examination showed that the milk fell below standard. Inspector Shorten received a report to that effect today but declares that Lambert has no authority to file complaints.

EAGLES' PARADE THIS EVENING

Delegates Here From Nevada, Idaho and Utah in Attendance on Tri-State Aerie—Local and Visiting Eagles Will Be in Line at 7 O'Clock—Dance Later—Outing in the Canyon Tomorrow.

The Eagles own the city. Flying in from all points of the compass to join the Tri-state aerie, the feathered ones took possession of Ogden. Through William Harcombe, Mayor A. G. Fell surrendered the city and presented the visitors with a large key saying, "Enjoy yourselves. Make Ogden your city."

When the convention was opened at the Eagles' club this morning, practically every delegate was present to answer to the roll call. Many arrived in the city last night but the majority came in on the early trains this morning and there are still others to come this evening. In addition to the delegates, there are delegations of Eagles from the various lodges of Utah, Idaho and Nevada, who have accompanied their aerie delegates to enjoy the amusements prepared for them by the Ogden lodge.

The local club of the Fraternal Order of Eagles is the home of the visitors and the committees in charge of the convention are seeing to it that their wants are attended to. There are Ogden Eagles to direct the visitors to hotels, cafes and places of amusement and at the same time put in a few good words for the town. With Tri-state Aerie President E. R. Geiger of Ogden aerie No. 118, presiding, and the other Tri-state officers present, the opening session was called to order this morning at 10 o'clock.

The following are the officers: Tri-state past president, C. A. Boyd; president, E. R. Geiger; vice president, William J. Costello, Aerie 589, Sandpoint, Ida.; secretary, D. J. Elrod, Aerie 119, Pocatello; treasurer, F. E. Wessler, Aerie 576, Idaho Falls; Elster, B. E. Walker, Aerie 1706, Elko; A. W. Foreman, Aerie 659, Bingham, and W. F. Horn, Aerie 634, Halley, Ida.

After the call to order by President Geiger, Joseph Chee gave the address of welcome in the name of Ogden lodge.

In behalf of Mayor Fell and Ogden City, William Harcombe welcomed the Eagles to the city, told them Ogden was extremely glad to have them and ended his address by presenting a large key which he said was a token giving the visitors possession of Ogden so long as they desired to stay.

Past President C. A. Boyd accepted the key and responded to the address of Mr. Harcombe. The session then came to an end for the morning and the delegates met again in the lodge room at 1:30 o'clock to transact business.

The session this morning was an open meeting and no business outside of the regular routine was taken up. It served as a general get-acquainted meeting and was preliminary to the heavier business to come. Secretary Elrod was busy after the meeting checking up delegates and distributing badges, and President Geiger also was kept on the move.

The big parade, in which all delegates and visiting Eagles will participate, will be held at 7 o'clock this evening. After the procession returns to the club, the signal will be given and the big carnival on Hudson will commence. Hundreds of red, white and blue incandescent globes have been strung and were tested this morning.

The evening will conclude with a dance in the club hall with the Eagles' orchestra furnishing the music.

There will be a morning business session tomorrow after which the delegates and other Eagles will adjourn to the canyon for a day of pleasure.

The election of officers for the year will occur Thursday morning and the drill for the aerie cup will be held in the evening.

SEAT SALE

FOR WRESTLING MATCH

Seats for the Harbertson-Isrlinger wrestling match will open tomorrow morning at the Orpheum box office, and from the numerous inquiries received, a number from ladies, one of the biggest houses of the season for an athletic event is looked for. Each man is in perfect condition from long training and the natural desire to show the public they are real wrestlers, which some doubted after seeing their last match a few weeks ago. The many friends of Jack Harbertson will see a different man in the ring this time after his experience and faithful training under the skillful hands of Ernest Kartje, and Isrlinger has been doing some training, too, since his last match. He thinks he was given an unfair decision before and wants to show Ogden sports that he can back up his record of many victories on the other side of the water by a clean victory over the local boy. Both men say they are going to mix it from the sound of the gong and wrestling fans can be assured of seeing one of the fastest and most exciting matches ever pulled off in Ogden. Prices have been reduced for this match owing to the hot weather.

PIANO RECITAL. Miss Lillian M. Wright was presented by Squire Cook in piano recital last evening in the Weber academy auditorium before a large and appreciative audience. She was the recipient of many beautiful flowers during the evening and was highly complimented on the excellence of the program and the perfect rendition of the various numbers.

The program of five numbers was one that would have taxed a great artist and not in the class usually attempted by amateurs. Such a presentation by an Ogden musician, trained entirely in the state, can only be taken as an indication of the superior merit of the artist and the thoroughness of her teacher. What could be expected of the Ogden young lady under the tutelage of German or Austrian masters can hardly be predicted, her many friends believing that she would soon be classed among the great artists of the nation.

Miss Wright has been heard on various occasions as accompanist in difficult numbers and critics have predicted a brilliant future for this accomplished young lady.

Engineer and Mrs. J. Tomasek and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keane, left today for a two-months tour of the east. They will visit Mr. Tomasek's old home in Wisconsin, also Mr. Keane's home at Buffalo, New York, and other eastern cities before returning.
